CHAIRMAN'S CORNER

Sure has been a cold, snowy winter like we haven't seen. Because of this, we had a pipe break that created a small flood at the Center. As it was taken care of quickly, the damage was limited. We are now in the process of having all that was damaged restored.

The rentals are still coming in by phone, internet, walk-ins and referrals. We are also getting requests for 2015. Many renters have complemented our facility and staff.

The Board agreed to nominate Don Reinholm for Finlandia Foundation National Performer of the Year. We know he has an excellent chance to be chosen.

We still do not have enough volunteers, but are grateful for the few we have. PLEASE support our activities, which volunteers have worked so hard to bring to you.

There will be activities for children. Light snacks, coffee and juice.

We will have informal discussions, storytelling, and awards. Test your knowledge on the Finnish National Epic "The Kalevala".

Join us for a fun afternoon!

Ladies of Kaleva, Aurattaren Tupa #49 Knights of Kaleva, Auran Maja #44

FCA BAKERS

FCA Bakers met on February 13th and baked 8 batches of soft, fragrant, tasty pulla. It will be offered for purchase at the Annual Meeting and at the FCA until it's gone. The volunteers were Char Lytikainen, Barb Witte, Betty Taipalus, Hannah Carlson, Lorraine Hannah, and Ilene Yanke.

If you are interested in baking, contact Lorraine Hannah at (248) 338-4165. All are welcome. No previous skill required.

SUNSHINE LADY

Sending get-well cards, thinking-of-you cards and words-of-encouragement cards to FCA members.

This little known function has been around for many years, and can only be accomplished when I am notified that someone needs a card. Send or call your card requests to the attention of the "Sunshine Lady" at the FCA.

Thank you, Eunice Potti Gould

MARCH IN THE GARDENS

Well March finds us finally getting out in the gardens but just to prune the trees and cut down some of the perennials as the ground is still too frozen for anything else. By the end of the month we hope to start seeds in the greenhouse to make us think that spring will someday get here. When the snow finally leaves and the ground starts to thaw, we know working will be slow and messy as the Finnish Center has areas of standing water to deal with. Walking in wet gardens will compress the soil and make it difficult for the plants and new seeds to come up, so we are always careful to work the perimeter of the garden or place boards to step on to dissipate our weight.

If you see cars near the woodshop on Monday morning, please drop by and join us in our projects, to chat, or have a cup of coffee.

If you have any questions or comments, items to donate, or monetary contributions, please contact me at (734) 546-5190 or gaylegullen@hotmail.com

FROM THE FCA LIBRARY

If your ancestors came from Finland, but not from along the Oulu/Vaasa coastline, perhaps they came from east of there, from Suomussalmi, which also saw large emigration. Suomussalmi is almost directly east of Oulu (still in Oulunlääni), near the Russian border, at what is called Finland's "waist", for this is Finland's narrowest area. Already in the early 1900's, when the bulk of the emigration took place, there would have been fairly easy access from Suomussalmi to Oulu, and from there to Hanko, the point of embarkation to the U.S.

The 1900 population of Suomussalmi seems to be unavailable, but currently the population (as of August 2013) is 8,940. It covers an area of 2,261.63 sq. miles, of which 226.65 sq. miles is water. The municipality is in the Kainuu region and is unilingual Finnish. Ämmäsaari is the biggest built-up area in the municipality. Suomussalmi has been home to some famous people, including the author Ilmari Kianto, Formula One racing car driver Heikki Kovalainen, composer Osmo Tapio Räihälä and the hockey player Janne Pesonen.

The Suomussalmi area saw some of the fiercest fighting during the Winter War (1939-40). It was the objective of the Soviet Army to advance to Oulu, effectively cutting Finland in half. They did not accomplish this; the Finns gave them strong resistance. Had they been successful, it would have been disastrous for the Finnish army, for they would have had to fight on two fronts.

Several battles were fought in the area around Suomussalmi, the most important being the Battle of Suomussalmi and the Battle of Raate. In these battles, the small Finnish forces, under Colonel Hjalmer Siilasvuo, defeated the vastly superior Soviet forces. The Finnish troops' equipment was better suited for warfare in the deep snow and freezing temperatures, compared to the Soviets' with their heavy equipment and lack of proper winter clothing. The Finnish army had high morale. They were defending their homes, religion, their mother-land, whereas the Soviets had only political reasons for their attack.

During this conflict, the Finnish army captured a large amount of sorely-needed military supplies, including 43 tanks, 71 field guns, 260 trucks, 1,170 horses, 29 anti-tank guns and other weapons. This gave a decisive boost to their morale. This is often cited as an example of how a small force, properly led and fighting in familiar terrain, can defeat a vastly numerically superior army.

The Winter War was over in 1940 and the Soviets claimed a victory, but as one gentleman in Finland told me, "They say we lost the war, but you will notice that we are FREE!"

Alvar Aalto sculpted a memorial named "The Flame" in Suomussalmi for the Finnish soldiers who died. In addition, a quite remarkable monument, designed by Erkki Pullinen of Suomussalmi, was erected in 2003 very near the Russian border where some of the most ferocious battles were fought. It is a bilateral memorial to the thousands. both Finnish and Russian (including some from the Ukraine and other nationalities) who fell in those battles. The total area of the memorial is around 30,000 - 40,000 square meters. In what became a field of natural stones, one stone was erected for every soldier who died; there are about 20,000 memorial stones. It is an amazing sight! In the center of the field of stones is a monument entitled "Wide Embrace", which stretches its protective wings over the silent field of stones. The monument contains 105 brass bells, one for each day of the Winter War. When the wind blows the bells sound a quiet message of the mindlessness of war. A text on the monument reads "Although man dies -- his memory lives on." The memorial was financed by the European Union, the municipality of Suomussalmi and the Employment and Economic Development Centre of Kainuu.

Near the monument is the Winter War Museum, Raatteen Portti, which has a collection of artifacts, photographs, maps and models which describe the battles that took place in that area. Actu-(continued on page 8) the Winter War monument is part of the exhibition.

If you visit Finland, this area is worth a visit. Suomussalmi is 331 miles from the Helsinki-Vantaa airport.

If you want to read an engaging account of the Winter War, you will find it in FROZEN HELL by William F. Trotter, which we have in our library.

FINNISH AMERICAN SINGERS PROFILE

This month on Mar 16th, St. Urho's Day, Finnish culture is celebrated at this scribe's home with friends. Even though only one Finn is present, my husband, we all joyfully share traditional Finnish food and enjoy the opportunity to celebrate all things Finnish! Jerry (Gerald) and Dagmar (Erickson) Malstrom have celebrated the Finnish culture throughout their forty-two year marriage, proudly proclaiming their Finnish and Swedish roots. Long participation with the FCA and FASM demonstrate their eagerness to share their traditions. Both were born in Detroit but their families were from the Upper Peninsula Copper Country. Gerry's great-grandfather Malmstrom (note the extra "m") came to America in 1880. Although the fact that the family spoke Swedish as well as Finnish and the spelling of their name raised questions in the family that he was actually Swedish, Jerry claims his roots as Finnish! Eventually his great grandfather went to Astoria, OR to preach and established an Apostolic Lutheran Church there in 1907. Jerry's grandfather, who was fourteen when the family moved here, stayed in South Range, Michigan. Jerry's maternal grandfather ran a boarding house and in 1902, placed an ad for a cook. He married the cook he hired, and eventually Jerry's mom was one of ten children! Jerry's aunt suggested that he meet his "cousin's nice, young, Swedish Sunday school teacher." That suggestion led to their 1972 wedding in the same church Dagmar's parents had married, St. Olaf Lutheran Church in Detroit. All of Dagmar's grandparents came from Sweden to the Copper Country. One grandmother, born in 1889, came alone at sixteen, made her way North, and lived with relatives there. Although Dagmar's father's family had settled in Laurium, the whole family did move to the Detroit area in 1922.

In high school, Jerry had planned to go into commercial art. He did work at Hudson's creating window and store displays, perhaps those fascinating windows we remember. However, he began to work for the city of Detroit through a Federal program, the Neighborhood Youth Corp. He was a counselor for young people in sponsored work training programs, visiting training sites and talking to groups in schools all over the city. Eventually he worked for the City of Detroit in various customer service type positions where his friendliness and ability to engage people was key.

Dagmar utilized her talents in organization after graduation doing clerical work for 21 years at GM "on the boulevard." Leaving there, she worked as a teller for Chase Banks for 14 years. Both of them enjoy helping others, which showed by Dagmar's involvement with Meals on Wheels and Jerry's commitment to the Big Brother Program for many years. Both have been active in the Kaleva Lodge association for many years.

Buses, trains, and automobiles have enabled the couple to travel to most of the FinnFests held throughout the United States. Occasionally the trips have been made as members of the FASM group, singing at their destinations. Oregon, Washington, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Pennsylvania were trips that stood out for them, as well as the times FinnFest has been held in Northern Michigan when they were able to combine the festival with visits to their families. Each summer a week or so vacation was enjoyed there - visiting relatives, viewing their grandparent's still-standing homes, and leisurely de-stressing in familiar environs. Throughout their marriage they have enjoyed trips to Hawaii, Myrtle Beach, Boston, and Cape Cod but have not gone to Europe as a couple. They would love to go to Scandinavia and this scribe urged them to take Dagmar's travel-agent sister up on her frequent email offers to book them a cruise there! They would love it!

Submitted by Scribe, Katy Koskela

This interview was based on the following questions:

- 1. When did your ancestors come to America? Where did they come from? And Why?
- 2. When and where were you married? What's the full name of your spouse? How did you meet?
- 3. What has been your primary adult occupation? How long? How did you get it?
- 4. What is or was your spouse's occupation? How do you feel about it?
- 5. What are your hobbies, recreational interests? Special skills you developed?
- 6. Have you traveled to foreign countries? When and where?
- 7. What achievements have given you the most satisfaction? When and where?
- 8. Is there something you would like to achieve but haven't done yet?

Dagmar and Jerry Malstrom

EASTER IN FINLAND

Easter in Finland is a peaceful religious holiday celebrated among family and friends. This is the time of year when people are eagerly awaiting the first signs of spring. Depending on whether the holiday is in March or April, the first crocuses may already be blooming. People try to help the spring along. They grow grass in dishes on the windowsill. On Palm Sunday, children go from door to door reciting a rhyme wishing health during the coming year. They give decorated willow sticks in exchange for candy. There are a few traditional Easter foods. People decorate Easter eggs, of course. And you might be offered a traditional dish in the form of malt porridge, or 'mämmi', served with cream and sugar.

For a mämmi recipe: http://cookingfinland.blogspot.fi/2011/04/mammi-traditional-finnish-porridge-or.html

FINLAND TODAY

First, Osmo Vanska, the conductor of the Minnesota Orchestra, received a Grammy Award. The Grammy was for the orchestral recording for its album of Sibelius' Symphonies No. 1 and No. 4.

Environment Minister, Ville Niinisto, has announced that the government is proposing two new national parks in Finland, one in Etela Konnevesi in central Finland, and the other in Teijo, which is in southwest Finland. said Niinisto, "It is important for national parks to have a positive impact on tourism and local employment"

There are now 52 municipalities in Sweden that offer services in Finnish. In the year 2000, the first Finnish language services were offered in the Haaparanda area of Sweden. Currently the percent of Sweden that is of Finnish Heritage is 7.5%, or about 710,000, while Finland has a Swedish speaking minority of just under 5%. As the second official language of Finland, Swedish is protected by law and services are provided in all the municipalities in Finland. But that may not be enough in Finland, because in cities like Vantaa, city services in a 3rd or even a 4th language may be needed. In Vantaa, there are more Russian speakers than there are Swedish, and then there almost as many native Estonian speakers as there are Swedish.

The Finnish Army is looking for a "Few Good Women", so says Major Vesa Tuhkanen, Armed Services Branch Director. The Army is looking for women to serve in the international crisis management operations. Currently about 700 women annually volunteer to serve in the Finnish army. In February, about 5,000 recruitment letters were sent to the Pirkanmaa area of Finland, and if successful, a similar letter will be sent out to the whole country next year. "The current generation of young men is sufficient to meet the Defense Forces' general needs, but women are also needed as professional soldiers, especially in the area of crisis management. Certain tasks in international operations require women," explains Major Tuhkanen.

"It's a dream come true", so says Finnish men's basketball coach, Henrik Dettman, after learning that Finland will be playing in the same group as the USA in the basketball World Cup tournament in August-September to be held in Spain. Finland will be in Group C along with USA, Turkey, Ukraine, Dominican Republic, and New Zealand. Finland's first game is on August 30, against the USA in the Basque city of Bilboa.

At the New Music Competition held at Espoo's Barona Areena, the winner was Softengine, a band made of teenagers from Seinajoki. The band will represent Finland at this year's Eurovision Song Contest to be held in Denmark in May. They will first play in the semifinal on Thursday, May 8, 2014, and if they make it, the Eurovision finals are on Saturday, May 10, 2014. Their winning song is "Something Better".

And finally, Heikki and Hilma bought an old house near Calumet in U.P. from a couple of elderly sisters. Everything was fine until when winter approached, and then they became concerned about the lack of insulation on the house.

Said Heikki to Hilma, "If those old women can live here for all those years, so can we."

Then one December night, the temperature dropped to zero, and when Heikki and Hilma woke up, the interior walls of the house were covered with frost. So Heikki decided to call the sisters to ask them how they kept the house warm during the winter.

After a brief conversation, Heikki hung up the phone and said to Hilma, "Well, they said that ever since they bought the house, some thirty years ago, they have gone to Lake Worth, Florida to spend the winters."

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Wow, what a winter! I hope everyone is keeping warm and enjoying the beauty of Michigan from the inside. Does it bring back memories for you Yoopers of putting wood in the stove? How blessed we are to have the modern convenience of gas furnaces.

We are keeping busy around the Finnish Center with events and are very grateful to everyone who challenged the cold weather to continue support. In spite of the cold our monthly luncheon was well attended. Please always remember that the Monday preceding the Wednesday luncheon is the deadline to make reservations. We have had several no shows recently for luncheons. This results in excess food and expense. Beginning in February there will be a charge of $10 if you do not cancel your reservation.

We all enjoyed the showing of the DVD "Ice Bridge: Mackinac Island's Hidden Season" on our new screen. The Social Committee is now raising funds to purchase items to enhance our events and the Finnish Center. If you would like to buy a copy of the DVD please see Terry or me.
