CHAIRMAN'S CORNER

Greetings from Finland!

I am writing this chairman's report while vacationing in Finland. Currently we are in Tampere which is my hometown.

Finnish Summer 2015, at least for the month of June and first part of July, has been exceptionally cold, wet and chilly. Although, after driving from Helsinki to Pieksamaki, then to Turku and finally to Tampere, I have to admit that Finnish Summer is as beautiful as it is green and there are flowers everywhere in the cities with well kept parks all over.

Currently Finland is undergoing an economic slowdown, exports are down, unemployment is up, budget deficit is growing and everybody is arguing about the Greece bailout plan. Finland changed the government few months ago and everybody expected that there would be a change in the policy towards the Greek exit from the Euro zone. This last week a new loan agreement was reached without too much opposition from the new Finnish government. If Greece will fail, the total Finnish exposure will be around 3-5 billion Euros or about 10% of the annual budget.

While we were in Paimio, near Salo, Microsoft announced that they are closing the last of the large Nokia plants there making another 2,800 Finns unemployed. The City of Salo will be facing pretty much the same fate as Detroit experienced few years ago.

In spite of all the economic pressures, the life in Finland is comfortable. The standard of living is high and Finland pretty much have no homeless people. Finland also is clean, air is clean, the lakes and rivers are clean and cities and countryside are clean. It is also getting a bit cheaper for the Americans as the Euro is approaching our dollar. Few years ago it was 1.6 dollars to one Euro.

Finnish culture is flourishing as well, cultural happenings are taking place everywhere, theatre, music and art events are going on everywhere you go, especially in the countryside. You could spend the whole summer here and always find some event to go to. It is a vacationer's paradise. And nothing beats going to a summerhouse by the lake, have a sauna and swim and enjoy the light summer nights.

SEE A MAJOR EXHIBIT ON THE VIKINGS VIA THIS SPECIAL TOUR

A major exhibit on the Vikings will be the destination of a modern-day group of Vikings who will travel by deluxe motor coach to Chicago on Saturday, August 29.

The trip will leave from the Swedish Club at 22398 Ruth Street in Farmington Hills at 8 am and return late the same day. It will include round-trip bus transportation on a Bianco Travel & Tours Inc. full-size motor coach and admission to the special exhibit at Chicago's Field Museum. Lunch will be available for purchase at the museum. Cost of the trip, including snacks on the bus, will be $79.

"We Call Them Vikings" is the name of the international touring exhibition at the iconic Field Museum. The subject is the world of the Vikings and our image of their world – an image that has changed thanks to the archaeological discoveries of recent years. The legend of Vikings as brutal warriors is widespread, but few people know about their society and culture. "We Call Them Vikings" shows that the tales of violence are only a small part of the Viking world.

The exhibition is one of two that were created by the Swedish History Museum in association with MuseumsPartner and studio-exhibit in Austria to tour museums in Europe and around the world. Chicago is the only scheduled stop in the U.S.

You can see this very special exhibit by participating in the August 29th field trip, organized by the Sons of Norway's Nordkap Lodge in Farmington Hills. Sign up now, while spaces are still available, by contacting Nordkap President Louise Giles at (248) 398-5976 or by e-mail at louiseagiles@gmail.com.

To see a video about the exhibit, go to: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fcw4nfg8Hbg>

FCA BAKERS

In May, we had these great helpers baking for the FCA: Char Lytikainen, Betty Taipalus, Hannah Carlson, Millie Harju, Irene Lamanen, Lorraine Hannah, and Ilene Yanke. Special thanks to Lorraine who calls all of the workers each month and Ilene who purchases the baking supplies.

We thank all of you who purchase pulla/nisu. We'll plan to resume baking in September.

kiitos,
Ilene

SIBELIUS CONCERT

During this year of celebrating the life and music of Sibelius, we have several events planned. Mark your calendars for these performances. You won't want to miss them.

On Sunday, September 20, 2:00 pm, there will be a free all-Sibelius concert, including some of his lovely pieces composed for voice, piano, and cello.

The focus on Sibelius continues on Friday, October 2 with a free concert featuring Katri Ervamaa on the cello and Marja Kaisa on piano.

More details about both concerts will appear in the next newsletter.

FROM THE LIBRARY

We have recently been weeding our vertical files as we have been replacing the old file folders with hanging ones. (For those of you not familiar with the vertical files: they are files holding materials such as pamphlets, clippings, programs and even photographs that librarians consider worth storing for future reference.) During such a task one runs across much interesting material. One item we ran across is an article Neal Shine wrote for the Detroit Free Press in the 1980's. In it he tells of interviewing one Gordon Hill who raced Paavo Nurmi in 1925.

At the time of the interview Hill was 84. He had graduated from Detroit City College (later Wayne University) in 1926. He claimed "We had only 1,500 students then, but we could beat the pants off any team Wayne University can put out today, even with their 40,000 students." It was not a prestigious college, Hill admitted. "It's the place you went when you couldn't afford to go anyplace else." But Hill insisted Detroit City College sports teams were always among the best in the region, despite the size of the college. But Paavo Nurmi didn't know that when he showed up in Detroit to race.

Paavo Nurmi, nicknamed the "Flying Finn", was a Finnish middle- and long-distance runner who dominated distance running in the early 20th century. He captured nine gold medals in three Olympic Games (1920, 1924, 1928) as well as three silvers. He came to race in Detroit at the State Fair Coliseum on a trip sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union. No doubt Detroit was chosen because of its large Finnish population. Hill explains: "There were an awful lot of Finns living in Detroit then. Some of the mines up North had closed, and they had come down to work in the auto plants. It's the reason Nurmi came here in the first place, because of the Finnish population. There was really no other reason for him to compete here."

Hill, captain of the City College track team, was chosen to compete with Nurmi in a mile run, which troubled him because although he had been a miler, he was now running the half-mile. But his coach assured him that since much of his career had been spent running the mile, he could do it. "Just do your best", his coach said, "and no one will complain."

An enormous crowd filled the Coliseum to see this Olympian who had won four gold medals at the 1924 games and held six world records in different distance events.

When Nurmi saw the track at the Coliseum, he was furious. He would not, he said, race on cinders. He agreed to run after the local committee said his refusal would bankrupt them, but he insisted it must be a 1,000-yard race, not a mile.

Hill and his teammates ran several practice laps around the track, but this further infuriated Nurmi when he saw the churned-up cinders. He insisted the track be reconditioned before he would run on it. So the track was dampened and rolled flat. Nurmi immediately took the lead as they took off. Neal Shine quotes Hill who recalled: "Nurmi was weakening on the bad footing...but at the final 220 foot mark he still had a 60-foot lead, and I took off after him full tilt. I was pulling up to him fast and would have caught him if the race had gone another 10 yards. But he heard me coming up behind him and ... beat me to the finish. The greatest sound I ever heard in my life was the huge crowd screaming its lungs out when they thought the local boy was going to catch Nurmi."

Although he came within seconds of defeating Paavo Nurmi, Hill knew who was the better runner. After the race he told reporters: "If Nurmi had had a good solid track to run on, he could have carried a skunk in his arms the whole race, and we would never even have smelled it."

No one has forgotten the "Flying Finn" although he was born over 100 years ago (1897). His medals are on display at the Olympic Stadium in Helsinki and a statue memorializes him in front of the stadium. But Gordon Hill seems to have disappeared. Neal shine writes that Hill retired from Detroit Receiving Hospital after working there for 40 years as an investigator. At the time of the interview he was living with his wife in Roanoke, VA. We have not found a trace of him in any Finnish Center records.

Going back to the vertical files: they are open for your browsing. The files are located in the northwest corner of the library in the filing cabinets. Nothing may be checked out but may be perused in the library. If you yourself run across something that you feel worth saving in our files, we will consider adding it to our files if you wish to donate it.

AUGUST IN THE GARDENS

August and our typical drought time after the extremely wet spring which means we often use all the water in our barrels in the vegetable gardens. We've captured and moved one groundhog this year which has helped to increase the bounty in our gardens (along with an additional amount of fencing against the rabbit that managed to get in with the second smaller groundhog). It's another banner year for raspberries and we are picking and freezing them as quick as we can. All-you-can-eat raspberries are a bonus for those working in the gardens or renting a vegetable plot.

This year the garden club, thanks to Bob McAlpine, has also revived our holiday luncheons. We celebrated both Memorial Day and Independence Day and hope to do Labor Day in September.

We've also been taking a little time to walk the property and enjoy the beauty while we are working. Sometimes we forget to literally stop and smell the roses and look at all the different trees, shrubs, and flowers that are blooming during the different seasons. Each day there seems to be something different blooming, another bird singing, or a colorful butterfly on one of the many flowers. We have several different host plants that the butterflies lay their eggs on and we find many different caterpillars on our property. In addition, we always seem to have praying mantis and dragonflies in residence.

If you see cars near the woodshop on Monday morning, please drop by and join us in our projects, to chat, or have a cup of coffee.

If you have any questions or comments, or items to donate, please contact me at (734) 546-5190 or gaylegullen@hotmail.com

JUNHANNUS CELEBRATION

On Mon., June 8, David Sharpe, Bruce Mikko, Ilene Yanke and Wayne Walli worked to attach eight ribbons and three simple wreaths to the Maypole in preparation for Juhannus on June 12. All week we watched the rainy weather, but all cleared up for this outdoor party. Frank Gottberg got the bonfire permit and set up the kokko. Carl Aebersold and the Ketola family set up chairs and tables on lawn outside of the Lounge. Mike Grant's family grilled hamburgers and hot dogs and added the fixings with potato salad and chips. Hilka Ketola provided a delicious lemonade punch while Ilene Yanke provided strawberry shortcake. Yvonne Lockwood of Cultural Committee set up the plans and brought a very good mixed lettuce salad. The Ketolas led some outdoor games popular in Finland.

We also appreciated Steve Niemi and Roger Hewlett's music all through the party, and even out at the kokko where we sang Finnish songs. We were happy to see Ruth Kaarlela and her niece to attend for the entire evening. We even had a special surprise, a young couple from Finland come as they read about the event on the internet. They are here ice skating in Canton where the Olympic skaters train, in hopes of being a part of the Olympic skating team!

Many thanks to all, especially any that I may have forgotten to mention! It was wonderful to see again so many members participating at the center.

Ilene Yanke

FINLAND TODAY

First, I hope everybody is having a great summer, I know I'm having one. As of this writing, I just came back home from a vacation in Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia.

Second, the 2015 Tango King is Aki Samuli. The final round of the competition had some "heavy weights" of Finnish singing such as Juha Hautaluoma, Kalle Jussila, Rami Rafael, and Markku Ketola. No, I wasn't singing, I can't sing, but it's a singer with the same name as me. Samuli is from Nastola. Earlier in the week, Susanna Heikki, won the title of Tango Queen for 2015.

President Niinisto's approval rating is at an all-time high. The Finnish President's approval rating is something that U.S. presidents only dream of, at 86%. The poll conducted by Finland's largest newspaper, the Helsingin Sanomat, showed that Niinisto got support from all sectors of the Finnish population. The only sizable dissatisfaction to Niinisto is from the Left Alliance, where 14% of the people give him a failing grade. Says Kimmo Gronlund, professor of political science at Abo Akademi University, "Niinisto hasn't irritated anyone but has thrived in the field of foreign and security policy. There are no signs of any tension between him and Minister for Foreign Affairs Timo Soini. Maybe his support for NATO membership explains his lower approval rating among left-wing voters."

Finns watch plenty of films and TV shows online. The report published by the European Commission shows that Netflix alone had an estimated 370,000 subscribers in Finland last year. The number of subscribers is forecast to increase to 856,000 by 2020. A survey conducted by the Finnish Communications Regulatory Authority (Ficora), found that 61% of Finns use domestic streaming services, such as YLE, Areena, Katsomo, and Ruutu. The services are particular popular among 18-24 year old Finns, with nearly 80% of the age group reporting that they use the services. YouTube and other similar services are used by nearly 80% of the 25-34 year old Finns, and by nearly 70% of the 18-24 year olds.

Mikko Rantanen, a forward from Nousiainen, Finland, was selected in the first round by Colorado Avalanche in the recent NHL Draft. Rantanen was the 10th overall pick.

And finally, after returning from the Apple store, Heikki's son Matti exclaims,
 "Yeah, a new iPod",
 Heikki's daughter Katriina yells, "a new iPhone", Heikki's wife Hilma says, "a new iPad",
 and the dad Heikki sighs, "iPaid".
